

Identity and access management

Decentralization and outsourcing are part of day-to-day business for many companies today. Fragmented enterprise structures with numerous locations, remote workplaces and home offices need to be linked up and different external resources integrated into business processes. All those involved need information for their day-to-day work, but at the same time, sensitive data must be protected. Effective identity and access management is therefore a must.

Our portfolio:

- Secure connection of remote workplaces and mobile employees
- Secure communication channels between company locations
- Integration of external resources in existing business processes
- User management (identity management)
- Management of access accounts and access rights (access management)
- Rights management for systems and applications
